

NURS8002 Quiz 1 CONTENT ASSESSMENT
MIDTERM EXAM NEWEST ACTUAL EXM
COMPLETE QUESTIONS AND CORRECT
DETAILED ANSWERS (VERIFIED ANSWERS) [ALREADY GRADED A+]]

explanatory (factor relating) -   CORRECT ANSWER   theories that relate concepts to one another and describe and specify associations between concepts, can only be developed once concepts are tested by correlational research predictive (situation relating) -   CORRECT ANSWER   theories that describe the relationship between concepts, are generated and tested by experimental research involving manipulation of phenomenon and/or concepts and how they affect one another prescriptive (situation producing) -   CORRECT ANSWER   theories that prescribe the activities that are necessary to reach defined goals

empirics -   CORRECT ANSWER   way of knowing that involves scientific knowledge coming from observation, testing, and replication

personal knowledge -   CORRECT

ANSWER   way of knowing that is knowledge gained from thought alone esthetic knowledge -   CORRECT

ANSWER   way of knowing that is harmony, beauty, expression; incorporates art, creativity and values

knowledge -   CORRECT

ANSWER   refers to awareness or perception of reality acquired through insight, learning or investigation. Within a discipline, it is what we collectively see as a reasonably accurate understanding of the world as envisioned by that discipline, it is tentative and refined over time

Theory -   CORRECT ANSWER   refers to a set of logical interrelated concepts, statements, propositions and definitions which have been derived from philosophical beliefs and scientific data and from which questions and hypothesis can be deduced, tested and verified; it attempts to account for or characterize some phenomenon research -   CORRECT ANSWER   used to investigate speculative theory, refine and test the reliability and validity of established theory and ultimately generate new theory